We'd like to invite you to take part on www.rugbymoments.net

Rugby Moments is a website which will showcase rugby memorabilia from museums and collections around the world. To celebrate the Rugby World Cup 2011, Vernon Systems is creating this online community where museums and collectors can contribute images and information about their rugby collections. Rugby Moments is powered by eHive – Vernon Systems' online collection management tool. This is a great opportunity to open up your collections to both an international online audience and a potential visiting audience passionate about all things rugby.

How to join

You can join up by first creating an account on eHive, then joining the Rugby Moments eHive community. You can then choose objects in your account to be included in the Rugby Moments community.

What to contribute

It doesn't matter whether your collection of rugby material is large or small. Rugby Moments is designed to showcase all types of rugby memorabilia from around the world. This might include local or national content, photographs, uniforms, equipment, artworks, videos and stories. You can contribute up to 200 objects for free, with paid accounts available above this level.

How to contribute

- Choose the objects in your collection to contribute
- Finalise the content you'd like to share about these objects
- Select or create digital images for the objects
- Ensure that you have copyright clearance to publish the objects and images
- Upload your records in bulk or create them online in eHive

When will it be available to the public?

Rugby Moments will be available to the public from early 2011 and you can contribute content at any time.
